Bespoke handrails

We are a specialist engineering company based in Carrickfergus, Northern Ireland. We are strategically positioned close to Belfast's main shipping ports and international airports. Our philosophy is to combine our expertise and passion for service to deliver high quality fabricated and machined components that support our clients' businesses.

Our team

With over thirty years industry experience, our team of skilled professionals aims to provide exceptional quality and a personalized and efficient service.

We have recently launched a new range of stainless steel products that offer clients environmentally friendly, durable, low maintenance products.

Our products

From our 6000² ft facility, we manufacture a range of standard as well as bespoke products for a global market. Our clients' businesses traverse many industries including, marine, environment, construction, security, farming, medical and retail.

Our bespoke fabrications have included customised street furniture and signage, balustrades, architectural structures, marine applications as well as components for the pharmaceutical industry.
